Introduction

The syllabus and curriculum for the centrally set assessments in Criminal Litigation is based on the principle that the Criminal Litigation course should prepare students for pupillage and the early years of practice at the Criminal Bar, and that the syllabus and curriculum should focus upon the fundamental principles, key rules and core elements of criminal litigation.

This updated version of the syllabus applies to all centrally set assessments taking place in the calendar year 2025. The updated syllabus is based on Blackstone's Criminal Practice 2025, including Supplement 1, which was published alongside the main work. The general cut-off date for syllabus content is 31 July 2024, the date to which the material in the main volume of Blackstone's Criminal Practice 2025 is up to date. Students assessed on the current syllabus will not be tested upon material appearing in later Supplements to Blackstone's Criminal Practice 2025.

It should be noted that the only (and important) exception to the syllabus cut-off date of 31 July 2024 relates to maximum sentences in the magistrates' court for either way offences, addressed in paragraphs D3.23, D23.14 and E13.5 of Blackstone's Criminal Practice 2025. Those paragraphs reflect the law as at 31 July 2024, whereas in the centrally set assessments taking place in the calendar year 2025 students will be expected to be familiar with the increased sentencing powers in the magistrates' court which came into force on 18 November 2024, under which the magistrates' court may impose a penalty of up to twelve months' imprisonment for a single either way offence.

Required Content for the Centrally Set Assessment in Criminal Litigation 2025

1. Overview of criminal procedure

1. The classification of offences (indictable, either-way and summary)
2. The structure of the criminal courts in England and Wales
3. The funding of criminal cases
4. The importance and application of the Criminal Procedure Rules, in particular the overriding objective and the case management functions of the court

Note

For the purposes of the assessment students will be required to know the classification of the following offences: theft, robbery, burglary, fraud, sexual assault, rape, common assault, ABH, GBH/wounding contrary to sections 18 and 20 OAPA 1861, criminal damage and possession, possession with intent and supply of Class A and B drugs.

Students will also find it important to be familiar with the explanatory material set out in this section of the syllabus, which forms the basis of understanding the examinable material set out in the other sections of the syllabus.

1. Explanatory material (which will not be assessed) on the classification of offences will consist of definition of the classes of offences and determining the class of an offence. The relevant material is addressed in paragraphs D6.1-6.4 of Blackstone's Criminal Practice 2025.
2. Explanatory material (which will not be assessed) on the structure of the criminal courts in England and Wales will consist of the creation and status of the Crown Court, judges in the Crown Court, role of the justices in the Crown Court, trial on indictment, appeals to the Crown Court, committal for sentence to the Crown Court, summary offences in the Crown Court, bail in the Crown Court, magistrates' courts, jurisdiction of magistrates' courts, statutory bases of the jurisdiction of the Court of Appeal (Criminal Division) and appeals to the Supreme Court from the Court of Appeal (Criminal Division). The relevant material is addressed in paragraphs D3.1, D3.2, D3.4, D3.11 (first sub-paragraph ending "... when the jury considers its verdict'."), D3.14-3.18, D3.20, D3.23, D26.1 and D30.3-30.4 of Blackstone's Criminal Practice 2025.
3. Explanatory material (which will not be assessed) on funding of criminal cases will consist of public funding and applying for a representation order in a magistrates' court and the Crown Court. The relevant material is addressed in paragraphs D32.1, D32.6 and D32.7 (first three sub-paragraphs, ending "... It was wrong to apply hindsight.") of Blackstone's Criminal Practice 2025.
4. Explanatory material (which will not be assessed) on the importance and application of the Criminal Procedure Rules, the overriding objective and the case management functions of the court will consist of the overriding objective, case management, rationale of case management, the court's role in case management, balancing efficiency and fairness, duties of the parties in case management, case progression officers, practical case management and failure to comply with rules, directions and time limits. The relevant material is addressed in paragraphs D4.3, D4.7-4.8, D4.9 (first sub-paragraph ending "... and consider setting a timetable."), D4.10, D4.11, D4.13 and D4.14-4.16 of Blackstone's Criminal Practice 2025. Explanatory material (which will not be assessed) will also consist of the content of the following provisions of the Criminal Procedure Rules: CrimPR rules 1.1-1.3 (the overriding objective) and rules 3.2-3.3, 3.5, 3.8 and 3.13 (case management).

Note

The only (and important) exception to the syllabus cut-off date of 31 July 2024 relates to maximum sentences in the magistrates' court for either way offences, addressed in paragraphs D3.23, D23.14 and E13.5 of Blackstone's Criminal Practice 2025. Those paragraphs reflect the law as at 31 July 2024, whereas in the centrally set assessments taking place in the calendar year 2025 students will be expected to be familiar with the increased sentencing powers in the magistrates' court which came into force on 18 November 2024, under which the magistrates' court may impose a penalty of up to twelve months' imprisonment for a single either way offence.

2. Preliminaries to prosecution

1. The Codes of Practice issued under the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 (PACE) and their importance to criminal investigations
